

1. Write a program to create a text file and store the name, age, and marks of a student in it.
2. Write a program to read the complete contents of a file and count the total number of characters.
3. Write a program to read a file line by line and count the total number of lines.
4. Write a program to read a file and count the number of words present in it.
5. Write a program to copy the contents of one text file into another file.
6. Write a program to read a file and create another file containing only the lines that contain the word "Python".
7. Write a program to append new student records to an existing file without deleting the previous records.
8. Write a program to read a file and find the longest word present in it.
9. Write a program to read a file containing numbers and calculate their sum, average, maximum, and minimum.