

1. What is a Dictionary in Python? What are its main characteristics?
2. What is the difference between a Dictionary and a List?
3. What is the difference between a Dictionary and a Set?
4. Why must Dictionary keys be unique?
5. Can Dictionary values be duplicated?
6. Which data types can be used as Dictionary keys? Why?
7. What is the difference between `dict[key]` and `dict.get(key)`?
8. What happens if you access a key that does not exist in a Dictionary?
9. What is the difference between `pop()`, `popitem()`, and `clear()`?
10. What is the difference between `update()` and assignment (`=`)?
11. What is the difference between `keys()`, `values()`, and `items()`?
12. How do you iterate through a Dictionary?
13. What is the difference between a normal Dictionary and a Nested Dictionary?
14. Is a Dictionary ordered or unordered? Explain.
15. When should you use a Dictionary instead of a List or Tuple?
16. Explain shallow copy and deep copy in the context of Dictionaries.
17. What is the difference between `copy()` and assignment (`=`) for Dictionaries?
18. Can a Dictionary contain another Dictionary? Explain with an example.
19. Name and explain the most commonly used Dictionary methods in Python.